

Rotorcraft Directorate ASW-100 presents:

2016 International Rotorcraft Safety Conference

This is a program by the FAA, Industry Representatives, and International Civil Aviation Authorities. AVDEX will provide easier access to aviation safety and maintenance information, and the means to share information and exchange potential solutions. It will be a cloud-based tool, so that real-time exchange of both problems and solutions will be available anytime, anywhere on personal computers, tablets, and smart phones. Once released, AVDEX will absorb the functions of several reporting programs, including the current Service Difficulty Reporting System.
